Maximum of 98 Above
Reached in Dixon
on Yesterday

The official government thermometer at Shuck at Bates store registered a maximum of 98 degrees yesterday.

ANOTHER "SCORCHER"
Chicago, June 27—(AP)—Another "scorcher" was in prospect today of Illinois, the heat and lack of moisture piling up damage to crops. Generally fair weather was forecast for today for most of the state, with little change in temperature. In Chicago, where yesterday a cool breeze fanned thermometers down 21 degrees in 20 minutes, warm was predicted. Mattoon topped Illinois cities in heat yesterday with 107 degrees at 3 P. M. Several cases of heat prostration were reported at Pana, Ill., where the mercury touched 105.

In Quincy, for the first time in years, threshing machines were kept in barns. Temperatures over the 100 mark were reported at Peoria, Canton, Bloomington and Rock Island.

FROM DOWNSTATE
Springfield, Ill., June 27—(AP)—There was no relief today from the scorching sun that sent temperatures above the 100-degree mark in many Illinois communities.

In Springfield, where the official thermometer read 102.3 degrees yesterday, the maximum this afternoon was expected to be in the vicinity of 104.

The weather bureau's corn and wheat region bulletin said the thermometer registered 102 degrees yesterday at Springfield, Havana, and Peoria and 100 at Ottawa and Elgin. Elsewhere maximum temperatures were in the upper 90's and the only rain reported was .22 of an inch at Kankakee.

The death of John Messerman, Havana farmer, was attributed to the heat.

DILLINGER AID CAUGHT TODAY IN SAINT PAUL

Only Wooden Gun and Three of His Gang
Now at Large

Minneapolis, June 27—(AP)—Pat Reilly, former St. Paul baseball club mascot, sought for weeks on charges of harboring John Dillinger arch desperado and fugitive gunman, was surprised in bed today and arrested by department of justice agents.

It was Reilly, the government claims, who led Dillinger and John Hamilton chief lieutenant of the fugitive to the home of Dr. N. C. Mortenson, then St. Paul city health officer, last spring for treatment of a gunshot wound.

Both outlaws had been wounded, presumably, authorities said, either in the Sioux Falls, S. D., bank robbery or the Mason City Iowa looting about four months ago.

Reilly also was accused by the government of having made the arrangements for the Dillinger mob to hide out at Mercer Wis.

Capture of Reilly leaves only Dillinger and three of his gang still at large. They are John Hamilton, Homer Van Meter and Lester M. Gillis, alias "Baby Face" Nelson.

The department of justice has offered $10,000 for Dillinger and $5,000 for Nelson—rewards offered under authority of the recently enacted federal reward bill.

Carlville Woman 104 Years Old Today

Litchfield, Ill., June 27—(AP)—Katherine Kerwick of Carlville, the oldest woman in Macoupin county celebrated her 104th birthday today. Her sister, Mrs. Bridget McLaughlin, a resident of the old folks' home at Belleville, is 102 years old.

DISCOVERED TOO LATE
Rockford—Cherry Valley residents have had their taxes for this year cut nearly in half but they're not happy. They learned that the cut should have been in effect last year, too, when assessments were made on full instead of 60 per cent cash valuation of property. There was nothing to do about the mistake, officials indicated.

Kipling Was All Wrong When He Observed Female of Species is Deadlier Than Male; Dr. Blair

New York, June 27—(AP)—Kipling was all wrong, in the opinion of Dr. W. Reid Blair, when he observed that the female of the species is more deadly than the male.

Dr. Blair is in a position to know a lot about animals, both sexes. He is director of the New York zoological park—Bronx zoo to the nature-loving, bear-feeding and lamp-littering public.

The male of the species, Dr. Blair declared today, is more dangerous, more powerful and more courageous than its mate.

"Among the higher forms of animal life," he said, "the males are larger, fiercer and better equipped with defensive and offensive weapons."

"It has been my experience, in handling all sorts of animals here at the zoo, that the males are much harder to handle, much more dangerous than the females."

The reason, he said, is that upon the male falls the burden of protecting and providing for the home.

He gave credit to the females for greater docility, gentleness, and adaptability. He also thinks females exhibit more intelligence in captivity—if intelligence is regarded as the ability of a creature to meet new situations. They are less obstinate and headstrong than their mates, he asserted.

CCC Landscape Foreman At Pines State Park Was Electrocuted This Morn

L. D. Stultz, Father of Two, Victim of Tragic Mistake

BULLETIN
After over 5 hours of work hopes were abandoned shortly after 2 o'clock for the life of L. D. Stultz, CCC landscape foreman, who was electrocuted at the Pines state park.

L. D. Stultz, landscape foreman at the CCC camp at the Pines State Park, north of Dixon, was victim of an electric shock this morning at 8:35 o'clock and although a pulmotor squad was still working tirelessly on the body after 1 o'clock today, it is believed that the shock was fatal. Further information was unavailable at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Stultz, who is about 34 years old, is from Rock Island, where his wife and two children live. He was a trained forester and tree surgeon. The accident, which is the first since the establishment of the camp last fall, occurred when Mr. Stultz tried to connect an electric drill with an overhead wire carrying electric current. He had been informed that the wire only carried 110 volts but the lead in the wire was 2300 volts, and when he threw the connecting wire over the power wire, still holding one end of the connection in his hands, he was felled instantly. The tragedy occurred just beyond the second ford on the main road into the park.

To Use Electric Drill
CCC workers engaged in removing rotted wood from a bad spot at the base of a big oak tree and Mr. Stultz planned to rig up the electric drill to relieve them from the manual labor.

As soon as possible a call was made to the fire department at Dixon and Fire Chief Wm. Mitchell and Police Officer Clarence Seagren rushed a pulmotor to the scene. Lt. Hickey, the physician assigned to the Pines camp, took charge of the first aid work and artificial respiration was supplied by a group of the officers and men of the camp, who alternated their work when the pulmotor was not in use. When the oxygen supply brought with the Dixon machine began to run low a call was made to Sterling and Fire Chief Connie Nicol of that city made a fast run to the park with four tanks of oxygen.

50,000 MEN TO BE ADDED TO C.
C. CAMPS SOON
Hundreds of New Encampments Will be Established

Washington, June 27—(AP)—Fifty thousand men will be added to the Civilian Conservation Corps next month as part of the government's $525,000,000 drought relief program.

Recruiting will take place in 22 states in the drought areas. President Roosevelt has authorized use of $12,500,000 for the increase to the camps.

Robert H. Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, estimated today the amount would keep the 50,000 new men in camp for three months. He said he had an understanding that the President would ultimately turn over a total of $50,000,000 for the CCC phase of the drought relief program.

The states in which a total of 150 to 200 new camps will be established include Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Wisconsin.

Thrashing Season Opens Down State
E. St. Louis, Ill., June 27—(AP)—Opening of the thrashing season in Madison and St. Clair counties, as well as in St. Louis county, Mo., has found farmers getting the best wheat prices since 1929.

Elevators buying from farmers in these counties yesterday were paying 80 cents a bushel and it was said that the quality of the grain is high. Last year's opening price was 73 cents at the elevators, while the 1932 price was 38 cents.

At Least 50 Hurt
At least 50 persons were injured, some seriously. The crash occurred in view of hundreds thronging the docks. The bravery of dockworkers and sailors who plunged into the harbor and rescued numerous passengers greatly diminished the death toll. This was officially placed at six pending a check of the passenger lists.

The six were among those picked up by divers, only to succumb. Doctors worked over them in vain for two hours.

One of the heroes was a fugitive from justice. Just about the time the disaster occurred a policeman spotted him in the crowd and prepared to take him to jail. But the man pleaded that he was a good diver and was allowed to aid in rescue work.

JEALOUSY CAUSE TRAGEDY FRENCH HARBOR TUESDAY

Six Lives Are Known to Have Been Lost in Collision

Lorient France, June 27—(AP)—The business jealousy of competing harbor boat captains was blamed by authorities today for disaster in which an undetermined number of persons lost their lives. There were six known victims, but authorities, fearful of a heavier toll, searched the harbor for bodies and checked workers' homes. At least two others were on the missing list.

Owners of the passenger vessels Prosperite and Marie Ange, which crashed in midstream near the docks last night, had been warned by port officials to cease their dangerous jockeying for positions.

With 100 arsenal workers, many of them women, aboard, the Prosperite was rammed from behind. She sank almost immediately. A strong current flowing through the harbor carried some bodies out toward the Bay of Biscay and a search for them was continued today.

CITY REPORTED DICKERING FOR WATER COMPANY

Secrecy Surrounds Refor Such Deal
ported Negotiations

Secrecy seems to be cloaking plans of the city administration which is reported to be negotiating the purchase of the Dixon Water Company, at a price of $525,000. In spite of the fact that the voters of Dixon by a very decisive vote, rejected the purchase of the Dixon Water Company at a recent election, the local administration is said to be now in favor of such a purchase and furthermore laws enacted by the last session of the legislature are said to have empowered city councils to make such a purchase without a vote of the people.

The price offered the water company is considered by many to be excessive and it seems quite certain that city ownership of the water company would mean greatly increased rates for water service because the present rates would not pay the interest and principal payments which the bonding company would require.

Van Nuys, Calif., June 27—(AP)—Federal authorities and police were advised today by relatives of George Smalley wealthy Van Nuys business man and candidate for the democratic nomination for the California state assembly, 42nd district, that he has been missing for 11 days and is believed to have been kidnapped or met with foul play.

Authorities were informed that Smalley had been in Washington, D. C., and had conferred there with his cousin Thomas Delehanty, connected with the Department of the Interior.

Relative, said they were advised Smalley left Washington June 16 for Van Nuys. He was to file his nominating petition for assemblyman but the time limit expired on last Saturday.

Smalley's son, Alfred, said he had telegraphed Delehanty in Washington for any information that might give a clue as to his father's whereabouts.

"We have not heard from father since June 12," young Smalley said, "and we fear something has gone wrong because he fully intended to file his nominating petition for the assembly."

FARM LOANS APPROVED

Chicago—The Illinois Emergency Relief Commission approved 64 applications for drought relief loans averaging about $50 each. The applications were from farmers in Grundy, Henry, McDonough and Stephenson counties. Officials said checks would be placed in the mails immediately. A farmer who has received a grant is still eligible for a loan none to exceed $200.

Three salesmen at the 1934 Kansas City auto show had attended, among them, 75 annual exhibitions of the kind.

Violence Menaces Milwaukee In Trolley and Bus Walkout

With menacing crowds gathered along its route, this Milwaukee street car, operated in defiance of strikers, was a rolling fortress, with motorman, conductor, and passengers protected by wire netting over all windows and a barricade in place for the rear door. Trolley employes, bus drivers, and electricians walked out when the company which operates transportation lines and the city light and power plant rejected union demands, and serious violence was threatened.

KIDNAPED CAFE OWNER WAS SET FREE LAST EVE

Chicago Man Says He Was Victim of Mistaken Identity

BULLETIN
Chicago, June 27—(AP)—Paul C. Lang, 14, was kidnapped this afternoon by a band of men who dragged him into one of two automobiles that paused in front of his Wilmette home and then sped away.

The boy is the son of Paul Lang, head of the Cook County Loss Adjustment Bureau, an insurance concern. A maid at the north shore residence observed the kidnapping.

Chicago, June 27—(AP)—The kidnapping of Andrew Sciaccia took a fantastic turn today as he returned home unharmed with a story that he was the victim of mistaken identity.

The 50-year-old cafe owner was released last night, shortly after police had issued orders to "shoot to kill" if the abductors were found.

Sciaccia said he paid no ransom. But Lieutenant Stewart Moss said he believed Sciaccia was kidnapped for ransom and was freed only after he had reached an agreement with his abductors.

Sciaccia said he was driven to a place he did not know and placed in a room where two of the kidnapers looked at him and said:

Not Mistreated
"That's not the man."

The victim said that the abductors taped his eyes and put goggles on him, but otherwise treated him well. After they discovered they had the wrong man they told him that they would release him as soon as it was dark.

"They drove me to the south side last night," he said, "and I came on home."

Sciaccia was seized by six men, posing as policemen, as he was putting his car into his garage at his west side home early Tuesday morning.

Marion's Portrait to Remain Where it is in Venice Show

Venice, June 27—(AP)—The portrait of Marion Davies, American motion picture actress, must remain in the American section of the international art exhibition here, it was ruled today by Count Volpi di Misurata, exposition president.

His decision was communicated immediately to Mrs. Juliana Force, director of the Whitney Museum of New York, who had objected to the presence of the Davies' portrait. Mrs. Force, now at London, said it had been hung without her authorization and threatened to remove other pictures if the portrait remained.

Italian authorities, in carrying out the ruling of Count Volpi, will resist efforts to take down other pictures. The count ruled that everything must remain as it is in the American pavilion.

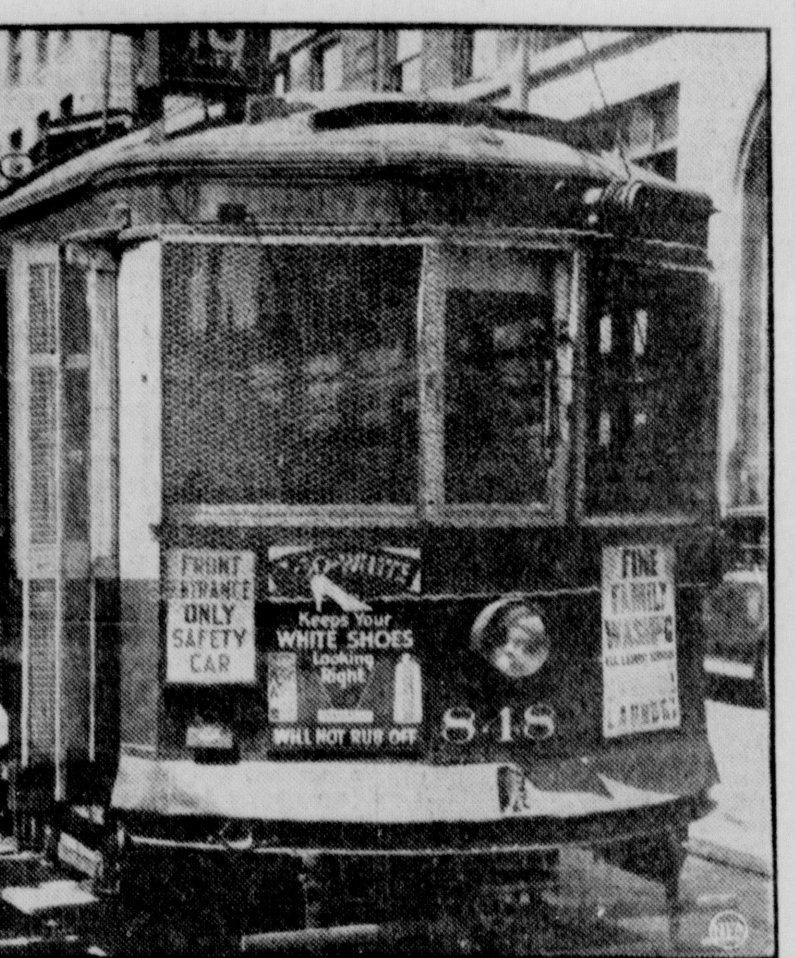

Lockjaw is Fatal to DeKalb Woman

DeKalb—Lockjaw, resulting from a scalp wound suffered two weeks ago when she obtained a marcel, was held responsible in testimony at an inquest for the death of Mrs. Dorothy Helen Kerr, 30, divorcee and mother of two small children. A doctor said she broke open a healing wound while combing her hair, and infection followed.

Mother of NRA Head Defendant In Law Fraud Suit

Muskogee, Okla., June 27—(AP)—Elizabeth M. Johnson, mother of General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, has been made a defendant in a suit filed by Henry R. Duncan of Tulsa, trustee for the bankrupt Major Oil Company of Muskogee. Duncan seeks to recover lands which once were the property of the oil company.

Officials of the oil company claim the land in question was deeded to Mrs. Johnson by her son, Alex Johnston, president of the firm, when he allegedly knew the Major Oil Company was insolvent.

The oil company became bankrupt Dec. 28, 1933, and the property transfer was effected nearly four months earlier, Duncan alleges.

The Duncan petition charges that the "conveyance was made to enable Mrs. Johnson to obtain a greater percentage of her debt than the other creditors."

The land involved is in McLain, Potawatomi, Lincoln, Garvin and Grady counties.

Mrs. Johnson sometimes is known as "Johnston" Alex, her son, spells his name that way, but Hugh Johnson does not.

Duncan explained today that the suit is merely to set aside an alleged "preference in bankruptcy and fraud in law and not in fact."

JOS. HARRIMAN GIVEN FOUR AND ONE-HALF YEARS

Former New York Bank
President Sentenced
in U. S. Court

New York, June 27—(AP)—Joseph W. Harriman, former president of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Company, was sentenced to four and one-half years in prison today on a conviction of causing false entries in the books of the bank.

Federal Judge John C. Knox directed that Harriman be turned over to the custody of the Attorney General of the United States for confinement in the penitentiary for a period of four and one-half years on each count on which he stands convicted.

The court inadvertently neglected to state that the sentences be concurrent, but said later that was what he meant, and he had that phrase inserted in the record.

Execution Stayed
Harriman, 67, was convicted by a federal court jury last Tuesday on sixteen counts of an indictment charging falsification of the bank's records and misapplication of funds of the bank.

Execution of his sentence was stayed until next Tuesday morning to permit him to apply to the U. S. circuit court of appeals for a further stay.

Before sentence was pronounced two physicians testified briefly regarding the condition of Harriman. One said he would not be able to stand exercise and that the ordinary rigors of prison life might result in a serious heart attack. The other testified the banker was suffering from deterioration of the central nervous system.

MILK PRICE
Due to prevailing unusual conditions, it is impractical for the Borden Company to announce in advance the price it will pay for fluid milk delivered and accepted.
Therefore, until further notice, the price for fluid milk will not be announced until after said milk is delivered and accepted. The price will be published within five (5) days after the period for which the company will have heretofore announced the price in advance.
The price for milk delivered in May is $1.242 per cwt for 4 per cent milk, direct ratio.

Syria
Syria is a former province of the old Turkish empire, which with Bulgaria, joined the central powers of Germany and Austria-Hungary. Syria was made an independent state by the Treaty of Sevres, August 10, 1920, and administered under the mandate given to France by the supreme council of the allied powers. The mandate went into force on September 29, 1923.

Mae West's Latest Picture to be Cut to Meet Public Cry

Hollywood June 27—(AP)—The film cutters' shears will slash Mae West's latest motion picture in answer to the cry for cleaner productions. Another screen feature has been abandoned.

Paramount headquarters in New York announced Miss West's production, "It Ain't No Sin," would be revised and the title dropped. The New York film board had objected to portions of it.
Samuel Goldwyn, pioneer producer, said here that production of his half-million dollar picture, "Barbary Coast," has been postponed. It was to have portrayed the rollicking gold coast of San Francisco's early mining days.
Goldwyn said "Barbary Coast" was not a child's story and he would not tamper with it to fit present demands.

The Barber's Pole
The red-and-white striped barber's pole dates back to the time when a barber not only cut hair and shaved his customers but also practiced minor surgery such as blood letting and wound dressing, says Pathfinder Magazine. It was not until 1745 that the barber surgeons (as they were called) were prohibited from practicing surgery in England. It was abolished in France about the time of the revolution and in Germany around 1809. In the original symbol, a brass basin hung from the striped pole. It is generally agreed that the stripes represented bandages; the basin, the vessel for receiving the blood. Only the pole is used in America.

There are 2,844 free lounge seats in buildings at the Fair, and outdoor benches with a seating capacity of approximately 80,000 persons.

State Preparing to Crack Down on Slow Motor Truck Owners

Chicago, June 27—(AP)—With the deadline 24 hours, the state compliance board today prepared to take action against Illinois motor truck owners who decline to sign the NRA code.
The national code authority today directed local officials, including registrars in 43 downstate cities, to prepare a list of non-signers to the code immediately after the deadline is passed for state NRA headquarters.
Chester G. Moore, chairman of the Illinois truck code board, said probably several thousand truckers would be "outside the fold" and that their names would be submitted to John E. Cassidy, state NRA director, for action by the compliance board.
Five thousand cubic yards of paper and refuse are collected every day by New York City's street cleaners.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30th—MENDOTA, ILL.
M. Biers Sales Stables
1:00 P. M.

These are those extra good northern pigs weighing from 40 to 135 lbs. They are all double vaccinated and are a choice lot of feeders. You can't beat the quality.
The sows are light weight and are mostly Hampshires, Poland China and Duroc Jerseys and are proven breeders.
There's no question that this hog market is going much higher and later it is going to be impossible to buy any good pigs. We intended to have at least 2000 pigs for this sale and after a lot of hard work was only able to get about 500, so that tells the story of what it is going to be later in the season.
Be here Saturday as no doubt these pigs will sell at bargain prices.

CAUGHT BIG CRAPPIE
Dr. B. D. Hart of the Dixon state hospital staff, Z. S. Bidzinski, pharmacist and Chris Kugle stenographer at the institution, have returned home from a week's fishing trip in northern Wisconsin. The disciples of Izaak Walton report having had a most enjoyable outing with excellent fishing. Enough fish were brought back to treat the officers of the institution to a fine fish dinner at which time 45 of the state employes partook of large quantities of crappies, black bass and wall-eyed pike. Mr. Kugle brought back a crappie measuring 13 inches in width and 16 inches in length which is an exceptionally large fish for this species. A picture of the fish accompanied by a sworn statement as to the authenticity of their catch is being sent to the Field and Stream magazine.

GIBSON REPLIES

Editor Telegraph: Replying to charges against my tavern, made at the meeting of the city council Monday evening, no such condition ever existed there; there is an officer on duty in Dementtown and had such things gone on as charged he would have taken care of them. $4400 has been spent to improve the property and two outside toilets were torn out and the sewer connected. I employ five men, which is a benefit to the city; and when I have known of sickness in the neighborhood I have dispensed with music at an early hour in the evening. The tavern has never been open later than 1:30 A. M.

Surprised on Fifteenth Anniversary

(Contributed)

On Monday, June 25th, members and friends of the Truth Seekers Class, totalling fifty, met at the Bethel church and formed a motor caravan headed for the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zigler, north of Penrose, in honor of their 15th anniversary. Mrs. Zigler being the teacher of the aforementioned class. Plans were made and carried out surprising the victims completely.

They were so astonished at the noisy arrival that we were obliged to return immediately until after the first shock was over when we were invited to come inside.

All assembled in the spacious lawn of the beautiful farm home. Most everyone participated in playing the "children's" games which were enjoyed by all even the on-lookers.

At a late hour we were called into the house to a bountiful repast of sandwiches, coffee, pickles and cake, including a delicious three-tier angel food cake decorated appropriately for the occasion, same being baked by Mrs. Grace Quacoe of Woonung.

After the lunch was well taken care of, Mr. and Mrs. Zigler and we were asked to gather in the adjoining rooms downstairs. Rev. H. W. Lambert took the floor and joyed around a bit then presented the couple with a set of crystal candle sticks from the Truth Seekers Class. A few words of thanks followed by our host and hostess who proved to be still somewhat surprised at our coming and then again to received such a beautiful token of our love for both of them.

A short social hour followed. It was rather late when we left their home and bid our last adieu, after having spent another very enjoyable time together, and know all who were present will look forward to another gathering of this kind soon.

Prince of Wales Attends Dinner Honoring Dutch Princess

London, June 27—(AP)—Match-makers who have been worrying about the single state of the Prince of Wales had something new to talk about today.

Wales, who turned 40 Saturday without so much as an inkling that he was even thinking of matrimony, attended a dinner dance last night at the Dutch legation in honor of Princess Juliana of Holland, who is in London for the Princess and the Prince.

The Prince and the Princess, who is 25, have been linked in marriage rumors for that matter, both have been mentioned by match-makers with nearly every royal house containing an eligible.

Recent rumors linked Princess Juliana with Prince Bertil of Swedish legation in London issued a denial.

Princess Juliana, the daughter of Queen Wilhelmina and is in direct succession to the throne, is noted in Holland for her democracy. She is a talented artist and also specialized in international law at the University of Leyden.

In appearance she is tall and inclined toward heaviness.

Beef Steak Fry Enjoyed at Lowell

Employees of the Kline Department store held a beefsteak fry last evening at Lowell Park and everyone attending had a most delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kauffman, the new manager and his wife were present. Such fine juicy, rare steaks, broiled to a turn and served with large slices of Bermuda onions, hot black coffee, and ice cream and etc., etc. Then bathing and swimming formed the chief amusement and all returned home rested and happy and ready for another day, even if it is hot.

Montz-Trostle Wedding Was Beautiful Ceremony at Franklin

A beautiful wedding, the first ever witnessed in the Church of the Brethren in Franklin Grove was solemnized Friday evening, June 22nd at 8:30 P. M. when Miss Pauline Trostle of Franklin Grove and Mr. Doyle Montz of LaVerne, Cal. were married.

The Rev. Edward Rothrock of LaVerne, Cal. read the impressive single ring service at the altar's steps, under a lattice arch, covered with pink roses and baby's breath at the gateway of an improvised garden—rustic seats, a canary bird, small cedars, ferns and flowers, interspersed with shadows of lavender and green.

Preceding the wedding ceremony Miss Helen Blocher very ably rendered the piano solo, entitled "A Dream" by J. C. Bartlett, after which Miss Jean Root of Ashton beautifully played two violin solos, "Herbert" and "Andantino" by Le Herbert, and "Mystery of Life" by Le Mare. She was accompanied by Miss Frances Jennings of Ashton.

Miss Katherine Canfield, a talented North Manchester, Ind., college graduate then sang in a lovely lyric voice, two solos, "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning". She was accompanied by Miss Mildred Myer, also of North Manchester.

In the distance and accompanied by Miss Helen Blocher, then, could be heard the voice of the groom, singing the solo, "Because" by Handel, to the bride and followed by chimes striking the hour.

The "March of Triumph" from "Aida" was played by Miss Blocher for entrance of the groom, the minister, and best man, Mr. O. W. Neher, of North Manchester, Ind., and brother-in-law of the bride. They stood at the right of the altar awaiting the bride's party. The groom, as well as the minister and best man wore conventional black with maize ties and button-hole gardenias.

The bridesmaids were Misses Lorena Buck of Franklin Grove, and Miss Emmert of Mt. Morris, Ill. wearing gowns of yellow cross-bar organdie with green sashes and Lucille Buck of same material with a yellow sash, all carrying arm bouquets of yellow roses, baby's breath and lavender lupins.

The three ushers, Leland Blocher, Melvin Fisel and Glen Clutz, all of Franklin Grove wore dark suits, maize ties and button-hole gardenias. All six entering from the rear of the church down opposite aisles—to the lingering strains of the "March Triumphant" taking their places at opposite sides of the altar.

Strains of "Lohengrin" by Wagner were then played by Miss Helen Blocher for the bride. Dorothy and Lois Neher of North Manchester, Ind., wearing pink embroidered organdie dresses, marched down the white carpeted aisle and opened the garden gates, while the dainty little flower girl, Janette Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Miller dressed in white embroidered organdie carrying a basket of sweet peas and rosebuds walked through. Next the little ring-bearer, Robert Neher, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Neher, dressed in a white suit and carrying a Madonna lily, passed through the gates and they each took their places on opposite corners of the first step of the altar.

Then followed the matron of honor, Mrs. O. W. Neher of North Manchester, Ind., sister of the bride, groomed in light blue organdie and carrying an arm bouquet of peach colored roses and ferns.

The dark-haired bride as she approached the altar on the arm of her father, made a charming picture in a white satin gown, simply but elegantly fashioned and a long trailing silk net veil, carrying a shower bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and lily of the valley.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party marched out to "Mendelssohn's Wedding March", to the reception hall of the church, where congratulations were extended, after which a reception for 100 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The lunch was served by Mrs. Harry Patterson, Mrs. Jay Miller, Mrs. Guy Willard and Mrs. Lloyd Group. The waitresses were the Misses Leone Fisel, Belva Buck, Barbara Group, Ila Blocher, Bernice Clutz and Muriel Weybright. Their dresses were uniform white, with blue trimmings.

The house ushers were Kenneth Pfoutz and Kenneth Hood. After lunch, a beautifully decorated three-tier cake was cut by the bride and passed to all guests.

The many beautiful gifts were placed by Misses Arlene Beechey and Olive Weybright. The gifts were varied and useful and will be much appreciated by the bride and groom.

Mr. Doyle Montz, (son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Montz, of LaVerne, Cal.) is a former college alumnus, and has taken graduate work at Pamona College. He has taught dramatics, music and athletics in the Fremont Junior High School at Pamona, Cal. for the past year and will continue in this work another year. He is a young man of sterling character and fine ideals and stands high in the estimation of his many friends.

Pauline Trostle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Trostle of this community is a attractive young woman, well known in this locality. She spent her freshman college year at La Verne College, Cal., graduating at Mt. Morris College after which she attended summer school at De Kalb Normal and the past two years has taught the first three grades in the public school of Franklin Grove where she became very much attached to her pupils. She was a talented girl, has a pleasing musical voice and her singing was appreciated by many.

After the wedding, the bride and groom, with the Y. P. D. cabinet and home church work at the groomed leaving the work at this place, but expects to enjoy the new work in the west.

The out of town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Montz and Rev. Edward Rothrock, of La Verne, Cal.; Mrs. S. B. Miller and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Lehman, and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Glessner and daughter Marjorie, all of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Price, Rockford, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, Mt. Morris; Mrs. Mina Culler, Oregon; Miss Miriam Culler, Mt. Morris; Miss Olive Buntain, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. John Brindley, and sister Marie of Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Rorick, Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Carol Lehman, Kalama, Mich.; Mrs. Floyd Grady, Mt. Morris; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lizer, Mt. Morris; Mr. and Mrs. John Buck, Mt. Morris; Mr. and Mrs. Clara Lehman, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley, Mr. and Mrs. David Neher, Miss Kathryn Canfield, Miss Mildred Myer, and Kenneth Kintner, all of North Manchester, Ind.; Mrs. M. W. Emmert, McPherson, Kans.; Miss Beatrice Livingston, Miss Marjorie Ploeger, and Miss Doris Butterbaugh, all of Lanark; Miss Alice Albright, Lena; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. West, Mt. Morris; Miss Miriam Stover, Kirkland, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Neher of North Manchester, Ind.; Daniel Stover, San Dimas, Cal.; Mr. Netzel, Glendora, Cal.; Miss Iowa Pearl West, Polo; and George Neher, Mt. Morris, Ill.

The bride and groom left immediately after the reception to spend a few days in Chicago, after which they will continue their bridal trip westward through Bryce's Canyon, on to the coast, the culmination of a LaVerne College romance.

They will spend the remainder of the summer in young people's camps in the mountains. They will be at home to friends at Pamona, Cal. Sept. 1. Their many friends extend congratulation and best wishes to them in their new home.

Strains of "Lohengrin" by Wagner were then played by Miss Helen Blocher for the bride. Dorothy and Lois Neher of North Manchester, Ind., wearing pink embroidered organdie dresses, marched down the white carpeted aisle and opened the garden gates, while the dainty little flower girl, Janette Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Miller dressed in white embroidered organdie carrying a basket of sweet peas and rosebuds walked through. Next the little ring-bearer, Robert Neher, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Neher, dressed in a white suit and carrying a Madonna lily, passed through the gates and they each took their places on opposite corners of the first step of the altar.

Then followed the matron of honor, Mrs. O. W. Neher of North Manchester, Ind., sister of the bride, groomed in light blue organdie and carrying an arm bouquet of peach colored roses and ferns.

The dark-haired bride as she approached the altar on the arm of her father, made a charming picture in a white satin gown, simply but elegantly fashioned and a long trailing silk net veil, carrying a shower bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and lily of the valley.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party marched out to "Mendelssohn's Wedding March", to the reception hall of the church, where congratulations were extended, after which a reception for 100 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The lunch was served by Mrs. Harry Patterson, Mrs. Jay Miller, Mrs. Guy Willard and Mrs. Lloyd Group. The waitresses were the Misses Leone Fisel, Belva Buck, Barbara Group, Ila Blocher, Bernice Clutz and Muriel Weybright. Their dresses were uniform white, with blue trimmings.

The house ushers were Kenneth Pfoutz and Kenneth Hood. After lunch, a beautifully decorated three-tier cake was cut by the bride and passed to all guests.

The many beautiful gifts were placed by Misses Arlene Beechey and Olive Weybright. The gifts were varied and useful and will be much appreciated by the bride and groom.

Children Must Be Taught to Work

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Bruce Barton tells in a magazine article how he learned to make "2s" when he started to school. When, with much travail, he mastered the curly pig-tail, it was his first "mental victory." And he compares his pride of achievement to the newer methods of education in use that start out with play and leave effort for time to create in a sort of spontaneous combustion, so to speak.

To tell the truth, I am right with him on this question, "How and when will the children in the extreme type of experimental schools gain their 'mental victories'?" By playing and building, romping and visiting until effort to achieve bursts right out in an orgy of work?

I doubt it.

Duties to be Done
On this little ball on which we live, there is a joker in the deck, a boogey in the woodpile, and an ant in the honey. The word is "effort."

Each day there are mental and physical hurdles to jump. Each day we have to learn a new meaning of the words, "must be done."

No one knows the value of play with children better than I. It is particularly valuable in the early training of the young because through "play attitude" a dozen sermons will be absorbed and retained.

Not only that but the desire to learn can best be aroused by gaining interest in the object to be studied, or the thing to be worked out. There is no objection on my part whatever to the plan of showing a child a real cow and then having him take a pencil and describe it instead of getting his knowledge from an illustration in a book and no prejudice against a child playing store, making change, then putting down a problem in profit or loss on paper, because he has handled real apples and real money on the school counter.

On the contrary I think it a grand idea.

Preparing for the World
But here's the point. All through life he will have to do work he is not interested in. Every day he will have to "must" to lick without any preamble of interest. As long as he breathes, he will have routine, dry-as-dust labor, absolutely unemotional, heart-breaking jobs to do, unrelated to any play-attitude or spontaneous enthusiasm whatsoever.

This is why I believe the extremist school needs have a care. Some such educators insist that this sense of responsibility comes later. When? Does the advent of adolescence bring a work obsession? If so, I have never seen it to happen. Almost the contrary. In fact, it is during these later years that fine early habits seem to lie dormant, to re-awaken in the twenties with a yawn and shake. Dream years don't contribute much to abstract effort. The truth is that young children do have to be taught to work and like it, before they are old enough to think too much about their hard lot.

I am for the progressive school, but I should recognize limits and anticipate need for relief. Some can't work until he is bursting with enthusiasm is like a skyrocket in a store. Useless—unless some one gives him a push. He will never generate effort in himself.

Cooling and Refreshing Are Following Icy Summer Drinks

Swirly July days need frosty moments for relief. Some of these may come at mealtime, some in mid-afternoon and evening if you keep the ice-box well-stocked with cold drinks.

Ginger ale cooler is refreshing for either mealtime drink or afternoon in place of tea. It's easy to make, too; you can serve it in a twinkling.

Ginger Ale Cooler
One lemon, 2 oranges, 4 tablespoons black tea, 2 cups boiling water, ginger ale.

Squeeze juice from oranges and lemon and put juice through a fine sieve. Add rings to tea in teapot and pour over boiling water. Steep ten minutes and strain through a fine wire tea strainer. Cool and add strained juice. Pour into small molds or ice-cube pan and freeze. When wanted for serving put about 4 tablespoons ice water into chilled tumblers. Add one frozen cube and fill the glass with ginger ale. If sugar is wanted each person can add it to taste.

Lime and Java Rickey
One-half cup lime juice, 4 tablespoons coffee, 1 cup boiling water, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 eggs, few grains salt.

Make coffee infusion by percolating coffee and water for fifteen minutes or by drip method, pouring infusion over grounds twice.

Gooseberries Make Vivid Dessert and A Spicy Conserve

By MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

The lowly gooseberry makes a surprisingly vivid dessert and a spicy conserve. If you have room in a corner of your garden for a few bushes you will find them well worth planting this fall. They are rapid of growth and prolific bearers.

Gooseberries are simple to prepare for cooking. Simply wash them well under running water and then snip off the tiny prickly end and the bit of stem with a pair of small scissors, taking care not to cut or break the skin.

Gooseberry fool is a delicious summer dessert. All too seldom used in the average family. Other fruits such as raspberries and strawberries are sometimes substituted for gooseberries, but the confection is best as our grandmothers did it.

Gooseberry Fool
1 quart gooseberries
1-4 cup water
2 cups sugar
1 cup boiled custard
1 cup whipping cream
Top and tail the gooseberries and put into a smooth sauce pan with half the sugar and all the water. Slew over a low fire or over hot water until the berries are very tender and soft. Rub through a sieve and add remaining sugar. Chill and add boiled custard which has been flavored with nutmeg instead of vanilla. Pour into a serving dish and chill until ready to serve. Whip cream until thick but not stiff and sweeten with powdered sugar. Pile lightly on top of the fool and grate nutmeg over the top.

Stewed fresh gooseberries are nifty in a sauce which can be used over rice pudding, cottage pudding, or served plain with cream.

Three cups gooseberries, 1 cup water, 1-2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch few grains salt. Cook berries after washing, topping and tailing, with water and sugar, until tender. Stir cornstarch into a smooth paste with a little water and add to fruit. Cook and stir until mixture is thick and clear. Use hot or cold.

Gooseberry Bar-le-Due
Gooseberry Bar-le-Due is particularly good to serve with crackers and cheese as a dessert or with salads and meats as a relish.

Six pounds slightly under-ripe gooseberries
8 1-2 pounds granulated sugar
2 cups vinegar
Top and tail berries before weighing. Put vinegar, half the sugar and all the berries into preserving kettle and cook twenty minutes. Add remaining sugar and cook until the mixture thickens. It will take about forty-five minutes. Turn into hot sterilized jars and cover with paraffine.

If a spiced relish is wanted add spices the last five minutes of cooking. Use 1 tablespoon each of cloves, cinnamon and all spice.

Two Polo Weddings Celebrated
Mrs. Esther White, daughter of Mrs. Fannie E. Graeff of Polo, and Clarence Embury of Champaign, stationed at the White Pines CCC camp, were married at Oregon Saturday morning at 10:30 by County Judge Leon A. Zick. On Monday evening, over forty of their friends gave them a rousing charivari at their home on South Division street.

MESSER—OLSEN
On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, at the Lutheran parsonage in Polo, occurred the marriage of Miss Georgia Messer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Messer of Mt. Morris and Russel Olsen, son of Harry Olsen of Polo. The bride wore blue taffeta, with accessories to match, and carried roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Inez Tuttle, wore orchid taffeta and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. The best man was Gerald Weaver. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Olsen left for Chicago on a short honeymoon trip. They will reside in Mt. Morris, where Mr. Olsen is employed by K

UNCLE SAM BECOMES A LEADING BANKER.

People who like to sit about and discuss whether the government ought to take over banking, might stop a moment and consider to what extent it has already done so.

Since the banking crisis of March, 1933, great changes have swept across the whole banking world, changes so sweeping that few realize them. The American Bankers' Association recently summed up some of them, and the picture it draws is enlightening.

For instance, we used to have 30,800 banks, back in 1921. Now we have something more than 14,000, a decrease of about 16,000 (over half).

About 4000 banks have vanished since March, 1933. Several thousand banks owe the R. F. C. more than a half billion dollars on pledge of valuable parts of their assets.

The R. F. C. has taken more than a billion dollars worth of stock in 6400 banks by way of increasing capitalization, including many of the strongest banks in the country. Thus it has an interest in 44 per cent of all banks today.

A million people and institutions have borrowed from the 5800 loaning associations and corporations started by the government to extend various types of credit.

The R. F. C. also has direct loans to various corporations totaling around $700,000,000.

In the deposit field, the postal savings system has grown amazingly. More than 2,300,000 people now have savings on deposit in the 8000 postoffices authorized to receive them. A thousand such offices have had to be added during the last four years.

Private agencies have virtually abdicated from the credit field, the survey indicates. From 1922-1931 securities floated in private capital markets averaged more than five billions a year. During 1932-1933 these issues shrank to $621,000,000 a year, a decrease of almost 90 per cent. Somebody had to do the financing. So the treasury did it.

Add in the fact of federal deposit insurance, giving another government agency a direct interest in banking. Divorce of the security business from commercial banking puts a new complexion on the whole field, and the influence of the Federal Reserve System is admittedly rising.

So when you hear a discussion of whether the government ought to go into banking, it's well to realize right at the outset that the government is already in banking—right up to the hips.

BURNING UP COFFEE.

Once more that feature of present-day life which future generations will find hardest to understand or forgive—the voluntary destruction of foodstuffs at a time when many people are going hungry—pops into the news. This time it occurs in Brazil, where more than 3,000,000 pounds of coffee are being burned so growers, marketers, and shippers can receive a fair price for their work.

To say that this sort of thing is unutterably wasteful is not, of course, to attack the underlying problem. No producer can make a living when the market is glutted with the commodity he produces; in the present state of world organization it is sometimes necessary that producers of foodstuffs destroy a part of their product, just as producers of fabricated goods close their factories or put their forces on part time work.

But the fact remains that this way of meeting the crisis is fundamentally wrong. Sooner or later we must find a more intelligent way of solving the problem of overproduction.

ON A DIFFERENT PLANE.

Authorities at a New England teachers' college have ruled that women students must not wear ankle-length socks, except on the tennis court. The reason given is that these little socks are "unbecoming to future teachers."

Now, you'll have little difficulty in finding plenty of people to agree that the ankle-length sock is unbecoming. But why, one wonders, is it especially unbecoming to a future teacher? If the future stenographer, the future housewife, or the future salesgirl can wear them, why can't the future schoolma'am?

The school teacher often suffers a good deal from the common notion that she ought, somehow, to be set apart from the ordinary run of people. She has to be especially trained for her job, of course, and she has to be a woman of character and intelligence; but sometimes the insistence that she observe a different code than other women observe gets carried altogether too far.

BARREL-CHESTED BUNK.

Skinny youths who aspire to the barrel-chested bulk of a heavyweight wrestler might just as well forget all about it, says Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer of Wisconsin. It looks impressive on the bathing beach, but it doesn't necessarily mean a thing.

The barrel-chested man may be just as susceptible to tuberculosis or other pulmonary diseases as the flat-chested one, says the iconoclastic doctor.

Lung space and expansion is important, but the man with a long thin chest may have just as much lung capacity as the one who looks like a pouter pigeon, and the thin-chested fellow, if well-proportioned and well-nourished, may be just as strong as the big fellow.

So there you are, and don't worry if you don't bulge.

Finland is an oasis in the desert of defaults.—U. S. Senator James P. Pope of Idaho.

Conditions Twenty Years After the War

(This is the third in a daily series of six articles picturing conditions 20 years after the start of the World War.)

Ypres, Belgium.—(AP)—This "martyr city," whose ancient architecture was blown to bits in three of the World War's deadliest battles, will celebrate on July 29 the passing of another milestone toward reconstruction.

Twenty years after the German invasion started, King Leopold of the Belgians will preside over a dramatic ceremony in which a new belfry, built partly from the debris of its war-demolished original, will be dedicated. It stands in the ruins of the thirteenth century "Cloth Hall," once Belgium's finest civilian Gothic-style monument.

Belgium bore the brunt of the German advance, and Ypres was writhing under a hail of shells before the war was well started.

Austria's Archduke Franz Ferdinand had been assassinated at Sarajevo on June 28, 1914. A month later Austria declared war on Serbia, whom she charged with fomenting the affair. Soon the great powers of Europe were lined up against each other in a war which was to rip Belgium apart for four years.

'Wipers' To Tommies

Ypres—pronounced "Eep"—but known to England's Tommies in wartime as "Wipers"—fell into her tragic fate in October, 1914, when Belgian, British and French forces clashed with the enemy in a month long battle. That first battle of Ypres brought heavy losses and ended indecisively as winter closed in. Both sides dug in for the long trench siege on the western front.

Open warfare began again in the spring the second battle of Ypres lasting from April 22 to May 25. Gas attacks found the allied forces unprepared and they lost much ground. Heavy shelling rocked the village.

Inaugurate Carillon

Summer and autumn of 1917, saw almost continuous fighting around Ypres. The allies gained in the battles of Messines, but other campaigns faltered, and on November 4 the third battle of Ypres ended dismally.

There are 40 cemeteries within two miles of Ypres, and its battles are regarded as costly events in the effort to hold the western front. The village is 35 miles south of Ostend in West Flanders.

A 36-bell carillon will peal out its thunderous music for the first time when King Leopold views the town's progress toward rehabilitation.

'Joyous Resurrection'

Four niches in the belfry's facade, above the first floor, shelter statues of Count Baldwin IX of Hainault and Flanders, who laid the foundation stone of the original belfry in 1200; his wife, the late King Albert, under whose reign the new belfry was to have been dedicated, and dowager Queen Elizabeth.

King Albert is shown in general's uniform, with field coat and helmet such as he wore during the war, while the dowager queen is represented bareheaded and in a robe which flows over her feet.

The queen mother is not expected to be present at the ceremony, but Ypres is preparing an elaborate welcome for King Leopold, Queen Astrid, Crown Prince Baudouin, Princess Josephine-Charlotte and Prince Charles, the king's only brother.

The new carillon weighs nearly five tons; the largest bell alone accounts for two tons. Part of its florid Flemish inscription reads: "I sing Ypres' joyous resurrection."

CLAIMS INDIAN AGENT WAS REAL FATHER CHICAGO

Field Now Open for Controvery Over Others' Claims

Chicago, June 27 — (AP) — The real founder of Chicago, James Ryan Haydon claims in a book published today, was Thomas Jefferson Vance Owen, Indian agent and first trustee board president, thereby opening a field for violent controversy regarding John Kinzie, the Indian trader; William B. Ogden, first mayor, or any other candidate for the honor.

Haydon called his book "Chicago's True Founder," with this subtitle: "A pleading for truth and for social justice in Chicago history." It bears the endorsement of various specialists in the subject.

Ordinarily the Kinzie claim to the honor is accepted.

It is based largely on a book called "Way-Bun" (Indian for "dawn") written by Kinzie's daughter-in-law in her old age. Haydon however attacked what he called "the Kinzie mythology" and asserted that it was based on misrepresentation and on suppression of important original records, many of which he has brought to light.

Kinzie's Idea
As a matter of fact, Haydon alleged, Kinzie's idea, as an Indian trader was to bar all white men from the Chicago area with himself in control of the Indian trade all around Lake Michigan, licensing agents and fur traders, "protecting" the Indians and getting the government to build his roads.

"In the very nature of things as they existed for John Kinzie's future prosperity," Haydon wrote, "he could not have been a promoter of a Caucasian town. He was, therefore in no sense the father of Chicago, and his right to this title is wholly mythical."

On the other hand, Haydon continued, Owen led in the effort to move the Indians west of the Mississippi under government appointment, sponsored the establishment of Cook county by the legislature, led in the move to establish schools promoted railroad construction and finally sponsored the incorporation of Chicago as a municipality.

Owen was born in Kentucky and came with his family at 8 to Kaskaskia where his father trained the militia of the state. He served in various political offices in the 1820's in southern Illinois, coming to Chicago on his appointment as Indian agent. He died in 1835.

WILL SAVE YOU PLENTY... AND ONE OF THEM,
THE GOLDEN PLY, MAY EVEN SAVE YOUR LIFE

EVERY year thousands are killed or injured by accidents due to blow-outs. When you travel 40, 50 or 60 miles an hour, terrific heat is generated inside your tire. Rubber and fabric begin to separate—a blister starts—grows bigger and bigger until suddenly BANG! A blow-out! You can't steer, you can't stop.

But now every new Goodrich Silvertown has the Life-Saver Golden Ply that resists heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate, thus blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by overcoming their great, unseen cause. Silvertowns don't cost a penny more than other standard tires and they give you months of extra wear besides. Play safe. Let us put a set of these Golden Ply Silvertowns on your car.

TRIPLE PLAY IS WRECKER OF DIXON'S AMBITIONS

Sterling Pulled an Unusual Play: Beier Team Defeated

Dixon at Ashton.
Oregon at Rock Falls.
Princeton at Sterling.

Coasting along at a losing speed of five straight games, the Beier Bakers gave up another win to Sterling last evening at the Airport field by a score of 6 to 1. The team had been revamped in an effort to build up a winning combination but this failed to work last night. Bud Rink went to first base and Shires Miller was shifted to right field with Glenn Cortright at second. Manager Kays going to third, but the combination was far from a winning one.

Clark went through the entire nine innings, engaging Moore in a mound duel for six innings during which both teams played airtight ball. Clark had the command on the mound and with fine support held the visitors with ease. In the second the first two batters to face him singled into center left and the next three were quickly retired, two striking out and the third winding one high into the air for an easy out. In the sixth three straight singles went into the left garden with one out, but Sterling could not score.

First Triple Play
Dixon threatened to take an early lead in their half of the opening inning. Moore showed wildness and walked McDonald and Rink, the first two batters to face him. Dick Kehrt lined out directly at the pitcher who grabbed the ball, tossed to Coats at second to retire McDonald and Rink was caught off first for the first triple play of the season.

The old weaknesses began to develop in the seventh inning when Sterling scored their first run, the Bakers having played errorless ball up to this point. Cortright made a bad toss of Water's grounder, in an attempt to get him before reaching first and he was safe. Andrews popped to Rink. E. Rutt sent a single into right field, and Lobaugh flew out to Kehrt in center. Moore singled to short and the first score counted. Dixon's single count came in the same inning. "Shires" Miller registered the longest batted ball on the airport field, when he drove a home run into left field, the ball sailing high above the light wires and back into the cars.

Two singles and an error gave Sterling the lead in the eighth and in the final inning, a triple, a double, two singles and an error registered four more for the visitors.

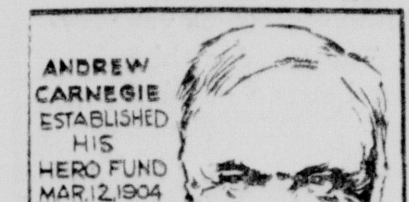

The score:

Oregon—Irving Schultz of Belvidere, pitching for Oregon, registered the first no hit and no run game of the season in the Rock River Valley soft ball league on the home grounds last evening against Ashton. In addition to this fine record which he missed by one scratch hit, last week against Dixon, Schultz fanned 24 batters. The final score was 3 to 0 in Oregon's favor which gives them a tie with Sterling for second place in the league standing. Beyer, former Dixon pitcher, was touched for five hits and he fanned 14 of the Oregon batters.

Princeton—The league leading Rockets of Rock Falls were pulled down a peg last evening by the local team of the soft ball league by a score of 5 to 3. Princeton led the attack against the visiting twirler and were successful in piling up an early lead which the Rockets could not overcome.

BROTHERS DEAN HAVE DEFEATED GIANTS 5 TIMES

Paul Managed to Stagger Through to Win Yesterday

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The score of that famous National League series, the Brothers Dean vs. the world champion New York Giants, stood at 5-0 in favor of the eccentric pitching duo of the St. Louis Cardinals today.

Elder brother, Jerome H. (Dizzy) Dean, has beaten the champions twice in as many chances this season. Brother Paul, younger and not quite so noisy, outpointed them yesterday for the third successive time. Together they thus have accounted for five of the six victories the Cardinals have scored over the Giants in ten games so far played.

Young Paul, perhaps the league's outstanding freshman hurler, has pitched better ball games than he did yesterday but he was adequate and earned his 10th victory against only one defeat. The Giants pounded on him for 15 hits, including Mel Ott's 19th home run and Travis Jackson's tenth, but the 13-2 lead as early as the fifth inning and he staggered through to win, 13-7. Rip Collins, Cardinal first-sacker, drove in four runs with a double and three singles and scored three times himself.

Cubs Gain Game

The Giants' defeat cut their league lead to 2½ games over the Chicago Cubs, with the Cards another half game behind.

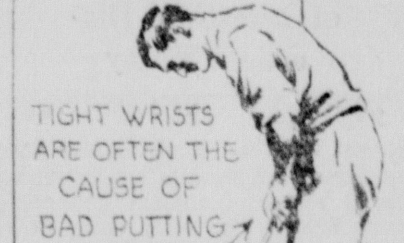

The Cubs' victory was a benefit by Lon Warneke's steady pitching and won from Brooklyn, 5-2. The Dodgers wound up the contest bereft of the services of Manager Casey Stengel, catcher Al Lopez and outfielder Ralph Boyle. Stengel and Lopez carried an argument too far to suit Umpire Charley Risher and were banished in the third. Boyle suffered a sprained ankle in the eighth.

Pittsburgh, in fourth place, split two games with the Phillies, dropping the first, 5-4, and winning the second, 4-1. The fifth place Boston Braves downed Cincinnati, 5-1.

TIGHT WRISTS ARE OFTEN THE CAUSE OF BAD PUTTING

Tension is the bugaboo of putting. If the muscles of the wrists and forearm tighten, the ball is stabbed with a stiff jerk of the arms instead of a smooth pendulum swing. Wrists must be allowed freedom and the club must not be gripped too firmly.

Another common fault in putting is turning the right hand over at the impact of putter and ball. This action applies a slight pull to the ball just before it is ready to drop into the cup.

Gehrig's double and 20th home run were the high spots in the New York Yankees' 6-2 conquest of the Chicago White Sox.

Trailing the pace-setting New Yorkers by a few percentage points although in a virtual tie with them, the Detroit Tigers stopped the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-1, behind Eldon Auker's seven-hit pitching.

Washington went into the third place, Cleveland into fourth and the Boston Red Sox dropped to fifth as the result of the other two games. The Senators nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 10-9, but suffered a severe blow when catcher Luke Sewell was hit on the head by a pitched ball and was taken to a hospital for treatment of so-called undiagnosed injuries. Cleveland trounced the Red Sox, 10-2 as Willis Hudlin allowed only six hits.

Lobsters and Grunts Staging Furious Battle

Chicago, June 27—A battle of a century—it may be that long before the deciding knockout is scored—was waged in full fury today at the Shedd aquarium.

The principals were a dozen grunts (a species of fish) on one side and four spiny lobsters on the other. The fighting pit was a large tank filled with salt water and sea weed. The spectators were legion.

Going into the twenty-second round, each one 24 hours in length, the grunts were far ahead on points. They had their opponents backed into a corner and were carrying the battle to them.

The grunts, weighing in at maybe a pound, follow the style exemplified by Max Baer. The lobsters, coming in at approximately the same weight, belong to the Carnera school. The fish rush in, bobbing and weaving; draw a sharp jab of the crustacean's saw-toothed spine; duck under it; and smack the lobsters with a sting tail.

But the lobsters come back with punishing counter attacks, slashing and flailing about with their rapiers until they drive their aggressors from the corner. They never stand fin to leg, and slug it out. Instead, the fish dodge, slip away from their spiderlike foes and wriggle around the pond until they elect to go after their flat-footed opponents again.

Detroit Team Will Play All-Star Nine at Amboy This Eve

The Amboy Shamrocks of the Illinois State baseball league will present an all-star team composed of players selected from the various clubs of the league in their contest with the Detroit Night Hawks Thursday night. The Hawks organization carries a complete lighting unit and the Shamrocks new field will be flooded for this occasion. Contrary to rumors the teams will play baseball, and not softball, the game being called promptly at 8 o'clock.

Stars Yesterday

(By The Associated Press.)

Lou Gehrig, Yankees — Drove in three runs with 20th homer and double in 6 to 2 victory over the White Sox.

Lon Warneke, Cubs — Kept Dodgers nine hits scattered for 10th victory.

Jim Collins, Cardinals — Drove in four runs with three singles and double against Giants.

Harold Lee, Braves — Three timely singles helped defeat Reds.

Willis Hudlin, Indians — Held Red Sox to six hits.

Bucky Walters, Phillies — Hit home run with two on bases to give Phils first game of doubleheader with Pirates.

Nelson Cardinals and Orioles Will Meet Next Sunday

The Nelson Cardinals baseball team will cross bats with the Nelson Orioles in the second game of the inter-club series Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Eberly field. The Orioles are out to win this game, the Cards having took the first one by an 8 to 5 count. The probable batteries will be F. Black and D. Black for the Orioles and Larry Beyer and M. Gale or C. Bohlen.

Two Postponed City League Games to be Played at Airport

Two postponed games of the city soft ball league schedule will be played this evening beginning at 7:30 at the Airport field. The games were scheduled for Monday night but were postponed on account of wet grounds.

TUGWELL SPEAKS TO IOWA BANKERS THIS AFTERNOON

Accuses Big Business of Trying to Wreck New Deal Program

Des Moines, June 27 —(AP)—Rexford G. Tugwell accused certain big businesses today of trying to wreck the new deal program for "social management" of agriculture.

Fresh from his Senate victory over foes who called him radical, the Undersecretary of Agriculture swung into the farm belt in the vanguard of a number of high officials who will expound Rooseveltian policies to the country before the fall elections.

Emphasizing anew that he is a "conservative," the No. 1 man of the "Little Cabinet" told the Iowa State Bankers Association:

"I am willing to work for the conserving of all those things in America which I grew up to love and respect.

"This, I take it, does not preclude a willingness to treat radically those forces which are enemies of the common good."

Some firms dealing in farm products he hit as inimical to the AAA. He arraigned big canners, packers, millers and milk distributors for their opposition to the now famous "lost amendments" to the AAA.

Amendments Killed

The agricultural administration asked the last congress to pass amendments described as clarifying the licensing powers of this recovery unit. Opposition sprang up, denouncing the move as an attempt to hand a czar's power to Secretary Wallace, and the amendments died.

Tugwell said big processors fought the legislation, although previously some of them had urged the AAA to clamp down on small businesses with the same licensing powers.

"Purposeful Evolution"

Tugwell repudiated the idea of "blue print planning" but he advocated "a purposeful evolution of society," involving no "rigid theoretical commitment to a finished system."

"I prefer to call this 'social management' rather than planning," he said.

"Social management, democratically conceived, would involve the social organization of the processes of production and distribution, taking advantage of ordinary and useful motives with reduced stress on the monetary ones, which seems to me to have been over-emphasized, and existing machinery and methods, to achieve first a wider distribution and use of goods, and later (for this is likely to occupy our generation) whatever further aims seem desirable."

The AAA and the NRA are instances of social management he said, both being democratic, yet compulsory on recalcitrant minorities.

FARLEY TAKES STUMP

Detroit, June 27 —(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley assured delegates at the convention of Rotary International today that there is no danger of any college professor leading President Roosevelt off on a haphazard advent's departure from the old practices of rugged individualism was long-planned and is now beginning to pay dividends.

"I know of no man with a more definite mind than his," said Farley. "I know of no executive less likely to be swayed by impractical theories, regardless of their source, than the president."

Picking up the business theme that has dominated the convention the Postmaster General said:

"The material effects of business slumps do not long outlive the passing of the period of depression. It is different with the psychological effects. x x x The scars left by such stresses as the average individual has gone through during the last few years will be seen and felt over a vastly greater period."

GREAT BAND IS TO BE HEARD ON BOAT EXCURSION

Southern Organization to Play on Clinton Trip This Eve

New Orleans is noted for its good bands. Many big bands from New York and Chicago have tried to adopt the New Orleans Syncopation, but there is something distinctive about this Southern Syncopation that is very hard to duplicate.

Captain Verne Streckfus, the Master of the "J. S." selected a band for the 1934 season, which, he says, is the pick of all the New Orleans Bands for the cruise of the "J. S." up the Mississippi.

The band Captain Streckfus engaged is Piron's Dixie Cotton Pickers under the direction of A. J. Piron in person. Piron was the first colored leader to play an engagement at the Roseland Ballroom in New York City. He and his band also played at the De Luxe Club, now the Cotton Club in the Harlem belt in New York.

At New Orleans he has played the leading hotels and clubs; namely, St. Charles Hotel, Roosevelt Hotel, New Orleans Country Club, Suburban Gardens and Trans-Canada's Night Club.

Piron has recorded many popular records for the Victor, Columbia and Okeh Companies.

As a composer, he is well remembered by that popular number, "I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate," which number brought forth a complaint from the Prince of Wales.

During the winter a brand new level dance floor was laid on the "J. S." and with the marvelous New Orleans Colored Orchestra, a rare treat is in store for the dancers in this community when the "J. S." stops at Clinton, Iowa tonight for a moonlight excursion, leaving Clinton at 8:30 and Main Avenue at 9:15.

Daily Health Talk

HEATSTROKE AND HEAT EXHAUSTION

When a man is down with the heat, it is a matter of utmost importance to him whether you consider and treat him as a case of heat exhaustion or of heatstroke.

The difference in treatment is complete. In heat exhaustion you apply stimulants, including warmth to the body, while in heatstroke you avoid stimulants and apply cold.

In heat exhaustion we have, as in all other forms of exhaustion, a state of collapse. The patient is in a faint and completely relaxed. His pupils are wide open, his skin is cold, his pulse is feeble and fluttering, and his temperature below normal.

A person suffering from heat exhaustion should be placed where it is cool and then stimulated. Cold water should not be applied to him. On the contrary he should be surrounded with blankets hot towels and should be given, when he is able to take it, hot drinks, including brandy. His body should be vigorously rubbed to stimulate circulation.

In heatstroke the victim is usually either unconscious or delirious. He has a high fever and his skin is intensely hot and generally dry, but occasionally moist. He breathes with difficulty. His immediate need is for a lowering of his body temperature. Hence, he should be put into a cold pack and be rubbed with ice until his temperature falls to about 102 degrees F. Then the patient should be dried and put to bed, wrapped in a blanket, with hot water bottles to the feet, and if necessary, to the limbs and trunk with an ice pack at the head.

First-aid treatment is of importance to the sufferers of either heatstroke or heat exhaustion. But they also need competent medical care and a physician should be called.

In hot weather there is another type of disability sometimes experienced, called heat cramps. This is in all probability due to the large amounts of water drunk when the heat causes much perspiration. Heat cramps can be avoided by adding a small amount of common table salt to the drinking water.

SOAKING RAINS NEED IN GREAT PART OF STATE

Weekly Crop Report Was Issued at Capital This Morning

Springfield, Ill., June 27 —(AP)—Showers broke the drought in Illinois temporarily, but heavy rains are still necessary, the weather bureau said today in its weekly crop bulletin for Illinois.

"Frequent local showers generally cared for the drought situation temporarily, but heavy and general soaking rains are needed to replenish the supply of reserve moisture and arrest heavy damage by chinch bugs," said E. W. Holcomb, federal meteorologist.

Temperatures in Illinois were above normal for the week ending yesterday, the period covered by the report.

"Corn is uneven in size, but the weather conditions of the week were favorable and it grew nicely," Holcomb said. "The crop is well cultivated and some has been laid by; planting continues."

Bugs Attack Corn

"Chinch bugs are now attacking corn in large numbers."

"Winter wheat harvest is under way in the north-central part of the state, and nearing completion in the south. Threshing is beginning. There is much complaint that winter wheat is poorly filled and of light weight as a result of the drought and chinch bugs."

"Oats generally are too short to cut, considerable of the crop having been plowed under or pastured. However, late oats are improving. Meadows and pastures are recovering under the influence of showers. Soy beans and cow peas are generally doing well; planting is still going on. A second crop of alfalfa is being cut in places."

"Cotton is blooming three weeks ahead of normal in the Cairo area."

SLAIN DENTIST HAD $115,981 IN ST. LOUIS BANK

Widow Files Affidavit to Secure Husband's Wealth

St. Louis, June 27 —(AP)—Dr. Homer L. Meyers, Eldorado, Ill., dentist murdered on his farm June 18, had $115,981 in cash and bonds in the First National Bank here, it was learned from an affidavit filed here by his widow, Mrs. Nellie M. Meyers.

Harold St. Clair, former Ohio convict who confessed he fatally shot Meyers, has refused to say why he killed the dentist. Authorities said robbery apparently was not the motive as $500 was found in the dentist's pocket, and that although his office was ransacked only private papers were touched.

St. Clair, returned to Harrisburg, Ill. after arrest in New Orleans, told officers he lured Meyers to his death after representing himself as a possible purchaser of the dentist's farm.

Counsel for Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, St. Clair's former traveling companion, said they expected her to be released after an inquest today. She was arrested shortly after the body was found, but denied knowledge of the murder.

Dundee Defeated in an Overweight Bout by Stuhley

Chicago, June 27 —(AP)—Midweight champion Vince Dundee, had a piece of change—and a beating—show today for an overweight bout with Haydon (Young) Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill.

Dundee, who appeared in Chicago a day before the fight, instead of six days as usually required by the Illinois State Athletic Commission, failed to take the engagement very seriously last night at Mills Stadium, and Stuhley won a ten round decision. Dundee was the aggressor most of the way, but a left hook to the chin bounced him through the ropes in the eighth round, and a right opened up a bad cut over his left eye in the third.

The two judges cast their ballots for the Kewanee youngster, and Referee Little Phil Collins voted for a draw.

AUTHORITY ON WHIST, BRIDGE DIED IN PHILA.

Milton C. Work Victim of Intestinal Disorders Today

Philadelphia, June 27 —(AP)—Milton C. Work, 69, instructor and advisor to millions in the international realm of auction and contract bridge, died early today in a Philadelphia hospital.

The Philadelphia card expert who gave up a promising law career to find a fortune in popular interpretation of the laws of bridge fell victim to intestinal disorders that harried him for months.

A son of Robert and Mrs. Anna Whitman Work, the bridge author and teacher, entered his chosen field through the medium of whist, a game of which he was an enthusiastic follower in his college days at the University of Pennsylvania and the university law school.

At school, however his interests were not restricted to cards. He played cricket, and tennis and managed the baseball and football teams. In the year of his graduation from law school, 1887, he toured England as a member of the Gentlemen of Philadelphia Cricket Club.

Whist Held Attention

His law career opened auspiciously, but whist held much of his attention. His first book, issued in 1893, was "Whist of Today."

With the advent of bridge he became a "fan" of the new favorite, and soon learned he could win consistently by following certain laws he found inherent in the game.

Dropping his law practice entirely in 1917, he toured the country at his own expense arranging bridge tournaments as Red Cross benefits. His efforts realized more than $100,000.

When contract became popular Work originated the "official system" with the "two club force" as a prominent innovation.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Margaret Hazelhurst Work and two step-children, Mrs. William W. Barber, Jr. of Southborough, Mass. and Henry H. Patton, Philadelphia.

Tony Canzoneri is Favored to Defeat Frank Klick Tonight

New York June 27 —(AP)—The right to challenge Barney Ross for the lightweight championship rests on the outcome of a ten round bout between Tony Canzoneri and Frankie Klick tonight at Ebbets Field, home of the Brooklyn Dodgers, "Daffiness Boys" of the National League.

The overnight odds showed Canzoneri former holder of the 135-pound title, a steady favorite at 7 to 5, despite the fact that the wear and tear of years of active campaigning have slowed up Tony considerably. Although he twice has dropped decisions to Ross, once when he lost his title to the Chicagoan and again when he failed in an attempt to win it back, Canzoneri still is rated one of the ring's finest warriors.

A crowd of about 15,000 was predicted.

RIVER STEAMER DE LUXE COMES TO CLINTON, IA.

Moonlight Excursion to Attract Many to that City This Eve

The "J. S." Steamer De Luxe is coming to Clinton, Iowa tonight. This steamer, Captain Joseph Streckfus, President of the Streckfus Line, states is the first to inaugurate "Ocean Steamer Service on the Mississippi River," and for five years was the leading excursion boat at St. Louis.

Spacious lounges on the "J. S." resemble a summer garden. When you come aboard you imagine you are on the roof garden of a big hotel. The wicker furniture, canopied ceilings, electric fountain, steamer chairs, and the shaded lights really make you feel that you are in a garden setting.

The Al Fresco dance floor on the second deck is one of the largest floating ballrooms in the United States and carries a big twelve piece band to play for dancing.

Captain Verne Streckfus, one of the five Streckfus brothers, whose father was the late Commodore John Streckfus, well known in all western rivers, will be in command of the "J. S." when it comes to Clinton this evening.

Tonight the "J. S." will take out an excursion given by the C. & N. W. Ry. Woman's Club and St. Patrick's Church, of which Rev. H. F. Finfield and Jas. J. Carroll, are chairmen, and extend a cordial invitation to all members and friends to take a ride with them on the "J. S." steamer deluxe, leaving Clinton at 8:30 P. M. and Main Avenue 9:15 P. M.

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

"Amy—your dear and darling—" His arms were about her.

Howard. "Jane wants you to say you don't care anything about me, and I want to know, more than anything in the world, what you're going to answer. I must know."

"I love you. That's what I climbed into the window to tell you, and since we're caught in this situation, and Jane wants a showdown, she may as well have it."

"You're an unspeakable cad," shrieked Jane.

"What are you going to say, Amy?" asked Howard Jackson steadily. "Do you care anything about me or not?"

"Don't mind me, Amy," taunted Jane. "You've been running after him behind my back, asking him to see you last Friday night and telling him to pretend he was going to see Professor Eliott. It's only my dearest friend who'd think of a thing like that."

There was no use in telling Jane to stick to the truth, she couldn't, she must always imagine mean motives, and having imagined them, believe them. "And she knows she's lost him," thought Amy. "She's being tortured."

It was Jane who broke through. "Oh—oh!" she cried, "I'll never forgive you, Amy, never, never! Take him, then, I don't want him, I never did want him, but he hung around and begged me and begged me—she put her hands over her face and started down the path, stumbling, looking very small and forlorn. Amy took a step after her, but Howard stopped her.

"Don't," he said, "it won't help to go on with it. Everything's settled now."

"Then tell him you don't care anything about him. Tell him that."

"But what's the use of all this, Jane? You're just making everybody upset and unhappy. There's no reason why we should take our feelings out and wave them around like flags. I hate it," said Amy, adding slowly, "and I won't do it. We're all overexerted, and we're all a little ridiculous."

"No, Amy, that won't do," said shouldn't have happened like this."

"Perhaps you're sorry it happened at all. Perhaps you'd rather I'd go away and not bother you any more. Perhaps you'd rather I didn't love you—but I can't help doing that. I've been awkward and stupid, but you see, this never happened to me before. Amy, darling, try to forgive me." He was so hopeless that Amy forgot her own uncertainty.

"It's all right, don't look like that. I—I suppose you're not engaged to Jane any longer."

"I never was engaged to Jane except in her imagination. Amy—your dear and darling—"

Now his arms were about her and they both talked at once, in half-words that meant nothing and everything.

"I thought you—"

"And I thought you—"

"I—I couldn't understand—"

"It was so fantastic, Amy, I kept thinking she'd tell me it wasn't true—"

THIS brought Jane back to Amy.

"I don't know what she'll do, she'll be so terribly unhappy. It makes me feel guilty."

"I can't be very sympathetic about Jane after what she put me through. But I suppose you're right, darling Amy. It's not decent to rush. But you're overestimating the way she feels. Jane is violent, she's not deep."

"But we've always been the best friends."

"Amy! If she'd been your friend she'd never have said the things she did just now."

"She didn't mean them. No, we'll have to pretend nothing's happened except that you and Jane aren't engaged. And you'll have to let her say she threw you over. I don't mind a bit, I mean, that'll make up to her a little, I'll—"

"—I'll let her down easy," finished Howard darkly. "Technically, I suppose it's true. But it's only sort of half true. For I can't go round saying that Jane engaged herself to me, much to my surprise and horror. Amy, sweet, don't look so shocked, you've no idea what a situation like this puts up to a man if he's not an inclination to all at once to like a man. There's nothing so hard to deal with and so terrifying as a girl who picks you out and makes a dead set for you. I didn't see it at first, she and Miss Rosa were so kind and friendly—and when I did see I couldn't decide what I ought to do. I felt such a fool. This one thing I am going to do, I'm going to call on Miss Rosa and tell her exactly what happened. I—I don't believe she'll be much surprised. Oh Amy, how sweet you are, and how gentle and lovely." He lifted one of her hands and held it against his cheek. "I can't quite grasp it that this nightmare's over, and that you—dear love, I love you and love you. I'll do whatever you say—about Jane—about everything. Only I do think I ought to go and tell Miss Rosa."

"I think so, too. Why don't you go right away?"

"But what will you do?"

"I might stay here and play awhile."

"Then I can come back as soon as I'm through."

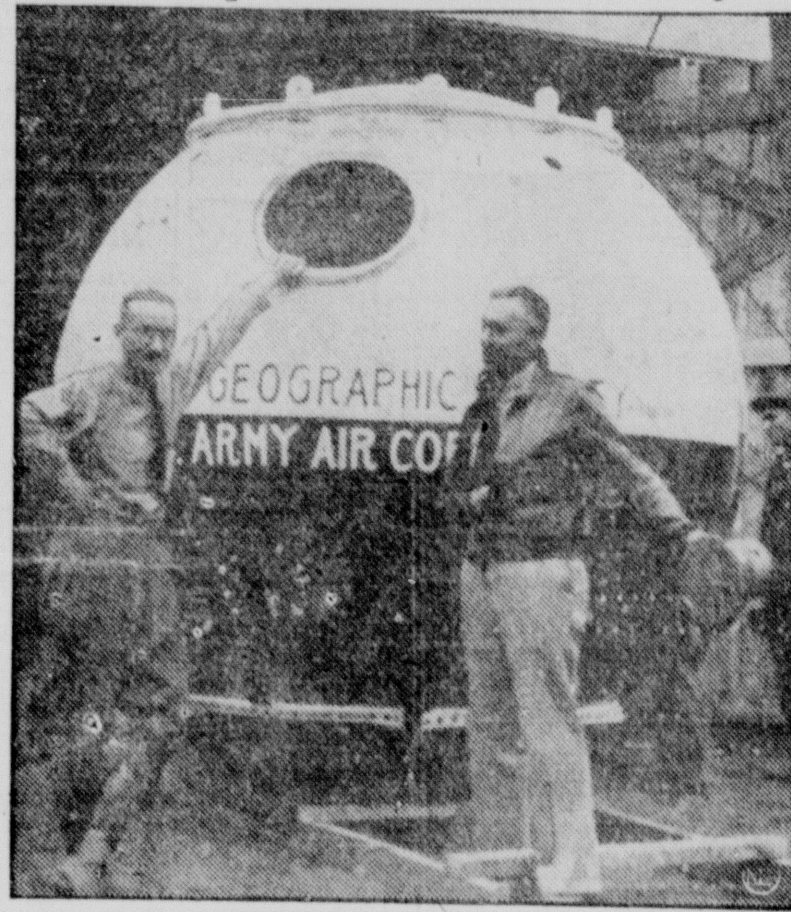

"No, you'd better not. But tonight! Oh Howard, are you sure, about you and me?"

"Yes, he was sure. He wanted nothing more than to repeat it endlessly."

OBITUARY

JOHN P. YETTER
(Contributed)

John Phillip Yetter was the son of John and Magdalena (Schoenholz) Yetter, early settlers of Lee county. He was born in Hennepin, Putnam county, Illinois, Dec. 13, 1858, but was brought to Willow Creek Township, Lee Co., by his parents when he was about one year old. Here he grew to manhood on his father's farm three and a half miles south of Steward. He attended the public schools and spent 3 years in Northwestern College at Naperville, Ill., after which he taught school in the vicinity of his home for a few years, finally entering the employ of G. H. Todd, who at that time conducted a general mercantile business in Rochelle. Being appointed deputy clerk of Lee county, he removed to Dixon, remaining for two years, during which time, viz. in April, 1884, he was married to Miss Margaret McDermott of Steward.

Resigning his position at the county seat, in partnership with Wm. Healy, a brother-in-law, he opened a general store in Rochelle, Ill. Later the firm moved its stock to Steward and began business there in what was then known as the Doctor Gardner building. Purchasing Mr. Healy's interest in the store, Mr. Yetter continued in his first location until 1897, when he built the large brick structure into which he immediately moved his goods, and where he continued to conduct a successful business until 1926.

In that year, ill health caused him to turn over the reins of active business to his son John.

To Mr. and Mrs. Yetter were born five children: Ruby, John, Bessie Marie, Eva (now Mrs. William Riley) and Nannette. Mrs. Yetter preceded her husband in death August 31, 1932. Bessie Marie died October 26, 1904.

In September, 1928, Mr. and Mrs. Yetter moved to Chicago where he continued to reside until death occurred at 4:45 Tuesday afternoon, June 19, 1934.

Besides his immediate family, Mr. Yetter is survived by one grandchild, Margaret, and five brothers, Carl of Steward, Jacob of Sullivan Valley, George of Naperville, Fred of Bell, Calif., Frank H. Yetter of Davenport, Ia., and two sisters Mrs. Lena Clinitie of Sterling and Mrs. Mae Hough of Mt. Morris, Ill.

In addition to his business interests Mr. Yetter served his community in various capacities. He was a member of the first group of trustees elected after the village was incorporated in 1903. Subsequently, he served as president of the board. In 1899 during the administration of Benjamin Harrison he was first appointed postmaster, a post he retained until 1903 when a democratic administration came into power. The office was again turned over to him in 1897 where it remained until 1912.

Mr. Yetter was also identified with the Peoples Loan & Trust Co. at Rochelle for many years.

Mr. Yetter's first and last vote was cast for the Republican party. For more than 20 years he was president of the Lee County Republican Central Committee. Mr. Yetter had his own opinion on all public questions and the ability and courage to express them. Purity of purpose, great integrity, sterling worth and true nobility were traits in his character that endeared him to a large class of people.

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon from the family home, the Rev. Mr. Nazarene of Rochelle officiating. Miss Roena Mulford of Chicago, accompanied by Claude Yetter Barber, sang "There Is No Death" and "Abide With Me." Messrs. Raymond Clinitie, Frank Gage, Claude Barber, Carlton Healy, Robert Stevens and James Powers, Jr., nephews acted as pall bearers. Interment took place in the Steward cemetery.

Among those in attendance from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Yetter, Davenport, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Yetter, Stillman Valley, Mr. and Mrs. George Yetter, Naperville, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yetter, Hebron, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hough and Mrs. R. G. Hough, Mt. Morris, Mrs. James Powers and sons of Maple Park, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. McDermott, Mrs. Edward Ryan and son Billy, Mrs. Frank Barber, C. Y. Barber, Mrs. Charles Gage, Frank Gage, Miss Louella Gage, Mrs. Andrew Sallade, Mrs. John Mulford, Miss Roena Mulford, Miss Annis Leeds, Herbert Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Wheeler, Carlton Healy of Chicago; Mrs. George Hartington of Detroit, Mich.; Attorney Harry Warner, Judge Harry Edwards, Judge W. L. Leach, E. S. Rosecrans and Arthur Lindsay of Dixon, Ill.; Raymond Clinitie of Sterling; Miss Frances Thorpe of Kenosha, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. George Kirby of Rockford; Mrs. C. Busse of DeKalb; Mrs. Nora Halsh of Malta, Ill.; Michael Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelly, J. C. Fesler, A. A. Phelps, Charles Hathaway, J. M. Weeks, Tom Kelly, John Sweeney, James Walker, Mrs. Mabel Stevens and son, Mr. and Mrs. A. Vig, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Barnett of Rochelle; Mrs. Zeno Wise of Rockford, Ill.

Living Our Everyday Lives

THE INTENT AND THE DEED

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

An old Hindu story lets a ray of light into a dark room. It helps a lot, especially in those honest hours when a man must face the awful deficit between what he is and what he ought to be; between his ideal and his act—which so often misses the mark.

The story tells of a man who had done a deadly wrong, and his soul was bowed down by the weight of it, despite the brief, bitter bliss of a great sin. In his sorrow an Angel told him that only by bathing in the sacred River Ganges could his guilt be washed away.

At once he started on a pilgrimage to find the Sacred River, journeying long years and weary miles. At length he came to a small stream, which he thought was the Ganges and for six years washed every day in its waters. One day a traveler said to him, "My poor man, this puny, muddy stream is not the Ganges. The Sacred River is far away."

Again he journeyed far, trudging over dreary stretches of desert and mountain, until he saw a great river in the valley. There, for ten years, he bathed in the hope of healing. But again some pilgrims said to him, "This is but a tributary to the Ganges; the River is beyond."

So he traveled further until at last, with a cry of joy, he saw from a mountain top the Sacred River, and throngs of pilgrims bathing in its waters. But, alas! he was old and feeble now, too frail to go on. His feet failed and he fell down and died on the mountain—his hands outstretched toward the river—its waters rippling in the sunlight.

The Angel made record: "God seeth the heart and judgeth by intention—his guilt was washed away by bathing daily in the sacred River Ganges." If it were otherwise, if there were no Mercy to make up the deficit of lives, taking our intent for our deed, there would be no hope for man.

By the same token, let us be merciful to our fellows; not judging them by the letter but by the spirit. Frail ourselves, we must not be harsh with others, taking the intent for the act, remembering how far we fall short of our duty and our dream.

Every Conceivable Force WORKED TO TEAR THESE TIRES TO PIECES

But NOT ONE CORD LOOSENED! NOT ONE TREAD SEPARATED! Not one Blowout!

As thirty-three speed demons careened and slid around the steep banked curves of the hot brick track, tires shrieked and smoked . . . break-neck smoked, 150 miles and more tremendous centrifugal force tugging to rip the tread from the body of the tire. In fact, every conceivable force worked to tear the tire to pieces, but not one cord loosened—and not one tread separated—and not a single blowout. What amazing proof of Tire Strength—Safety—Quality and Dependability.

Every one of the thirty-three drivers at the Indianapolis 500-mile sweepstakes chose and bought Firestone High Speed Tires. The fact that not one of the 132 tires failed is your greatest guarantee of the Extra Safety—Strength—and Dependability built into Firestone Tires.

The New Firestone High Speed Tire for 1934 is Safety-Protected on the outside by a wider tread of flatter contour, deeper non-skid, more and tougher rubber, giving you more than 50% longer non-skid mileage — Safety-Protected on the inside by eight additional pounds of pure rubber absorbed by every 100 pounds of cords. This additional rubber surrounds every cotton fiber inside every cord in every ply. This is accomplished by the Firestone gum-dipping process of Gum-Dipping.

Illinoisans in National Capital Get Into Spotlight

Washington, June 27—(AP)—The halls of Congress may be haunted by the memory of its members, but very few figures flitting up and down the marble corridors are congressmen.

They've left.

There remains to keep house only the secretaries, who will spend the torrid, humid summer months opening the mail, attending to departmental details, and mailing out pamphlets on how to raise babies, feed bullfrogs and kill chinchbugs.

Representative J. Elroy Adair, Democrat of Quincy, believing adjournment was certain, started home by motor Saturday night when Congress was supposed to quit. On Sunday, when he read in the newspaper the session had continued to Monday, he took an airplane at Columbus, O., and flew back to Washington.

Representative Leo Allen, Republican of Galena, was another who was so positive Congress would adjourn on scheduled time that he made "unbreakable" engagements back in his district. Allen left Sunday, missing the last few rolls calls.

By Wednesday, practically every Illinois congressional office was devoid of congressmen. The old third floor row in the old House office building, where Representatives Brennan of Bloomington, Nesbitt of Belleville, Adair, and Schaefer of East St. Louis hold forth, was quieter than midnight in Pesotum.

Even their secretaries were not to be found.

Among the faithful handful to remain were Senators J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, Representatives Claude V. Parsons of Golconda, Kent E. Keller of Ava and Donald Claude Dobbins of Champaign.

The attack by Representative James Simpson, Jr., Republican upon his fellow townsman, Secretary Ickes of Interior during the closing hours of Congress has an historical footnote.

The five minute address was, Simpson explained, "score settling." It was Ickes who contributed to Simpson's defeat in the April primaries. The congressman claims the secretary did so "because of reasons which have nothing to do with me, only inasmuch as I'm the son of the man Ickes is really mad at."

Simpson, scion of a wealthy Chicago family, said there had been "something of a verbal feud between my father and Ickes since before I was born."

Nevertheless, the address was both the maiden speech and the swan song of the nation's youngest congressman.

"I didn't deliver it so well," he explained, "because I'm not accustomed to making speeches; but I wanted to make it sizzling, and I did."

NORTH DAKOTA'S CONVICTED GOV. SEEKS ELECTION

However Victory in Today's Primary May Not Return Him

Bismarck, N. D., June 27—(AP)—Gov. William Langer, convicted recently of a felony, went before the North Dakota electorate in the state-wide primary today, seeking vindication.

He was opposed for renomination by the candidates of two other Republican factions—F. H. H. Thorsen of the Non-Partisan League and the Independent J. P. Cain.

Victory in the primary would not assure Langer of entering the fall election for he is scheduled to appear with four co-defendants before Judge Andrew Miller at Fargo Friday for sentencing.

Convicted ten days ago of conspiracy to defraud the United States government through solicitation of money from Federal relief workers, they face a possible penalty of two years in Federal penitentiary, $10,000 fine, or both.

Expect Heavy Vote
 A heavy vote was expected, with many predicting that it would equal or surpass that of the 1932 presidential election in which 258,000 ballots were cast.

The curtain fell on the campaign last night when Senator Gerald P. Nye and Governor Langer in opposing speeches in separate buildings addressed a third Bismarck audience. Nye has a supported Thorsen.

There are two candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor. Thomas H. Moodie and R. A. Johnson.

The polls opened at 9 A. M. (Central Standard Time) and will close at 7 P. M.

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY

"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When HOWARD JACKSON, young geology professor, comes to the small middle-western town of Marburg Jane Terry, the prettiest girl in town, determines to win his heart.

Howard is attracted by Jane's friend, AMY LOWE, but Jane schemes to keep them apart. Then one evening Howard calls on Amy and almost immediately they fall in love.

Later that night Jane confronts Howard and accuses him of breaking her heart. When he tries to calm her she interprets his words as a declaration of love and announces their engagement. A day later Howard is trying to explain to Amy what happened when Jane sees them together. She flies into a rage. Howard tells Jane he does not and never did want to marry her and that it is Amy he loves. Jane leaves. Amy admits her love for Howard and agrees to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

AFTER Howard had gone Amy went back to the organ and let Schubert's "Rosamunde" sing her strange and compelling joy. But she could not stop remembering Jane, Jane stumbling away alone in the sunlight that flickered through the elms.

Three years before, for Jane's birthday, she had made up a little song without words, using for the motif the letters corresponding to Jane's name in the scale. She played it now, a plea for pardon, for understanding, and it made her want to cry for the lost friendship.

Her thoughts had come back to Howard and she began to wonder why she was so sure that she loved him, that she would never love anyone else. How had she known, how had they both known? But she could not tell! Presently she closed the organ and went home, taking a way that would not lead her past the Terry house. She could not see Jane again, not that day.

Howard, in Miss Rosa's polished parlor, was feeling very much like a delinquent student before a large severe dean. Miss Rosa had not been surprised at his story, but she had not made it easy for him to tell it.

"Jane runs in here like a wild thing and raves around saying that you've been making love to Amy behind her back, and locks herself in her room, presumably to cry her eyes out, and now you've come with the story that you weren't engaged to Jane of your own free will, that she cooked it up in her imagination. What I can't understand is why did you let her tell all her friends that you were engaged and now, two days later, renege on it?"

Howard's backbone stiffened. "Jane told it without my knowledge. She was excited and unreasonable on Friday night and mistook my trying to quiet her for—well, for a proposal. Then in the morning she telephoned to every one she knew without saying anything to me. I did not ask Jane to marry me. I never thought of it. When I found that she'd told I didn't know what to do. I certainly didn't want to embarrass or humiliate her or you. I had decided to go away and let the whole affair die out naturally."

"Then this morning she found you making love to Amy."

"She found me talking to Amy and the truth came out. Miss Rosa, it is Amy I care about. It is Amy I want to marry, if she'll have me after all this mess."

MISS ROSA dried her eyes and straightened. "When she came in, she blamed us—she said, it was my fault, it was your fault, it was Amy's fault, it was everybody's fault but her own—I couldn't tell her so, she was too hurt, and nobody young ever reasons about feelings while they're feeling them. She cares about you, she really does, Howard."

"Miss Rosa—I—I can't think so, and I'm not saying that to escape my own responsibility."

"I'm not going where people will

Jane would not reply to the knock.

"Why in the world did you pay so much attention to Jane, if you wanted Amy?"

"It sounds very cheap and slurring to say so, but if you will think about it, I believe you'll remember that most of my opportunities to be with Jane were made, were insisted on by Jane herself, and not of my making."

"In other words," said Miss Rosa, "very nastily, 'Jane ran after you.'"

"In other words, she certainly did."

"Well," said Miss Rosa, glaringly. "I never expected to hear any man say such a thing about a girl! In my young days men were horse-whipped for less."

"Nevertheless," said Howard, "it is so. But I certainly hadn't the conceit to imagine that Jane took any serious interest in me. I am a complete stranger here, as you know, and I had no friends except you and Jane. You were very kind to me, you yourself told me that I was your kin, that I was always welcome in your house. I am sorry that I misunderstood you. I am more than sorry for what has happened. I know that I should have been franker with Jane at first, and that I shouldn't have come here so much, or taken her out so often."

Then he saw that Miss Rosa's eyes were full of tears and that her plump chin was trembling. "Oh, Howard," she quavered, "Jane's so difficult! She's always been difficult! I thought you liked her! I thought she might be happy with you! Somebody of her very own, you know."

"Miss Rosa, please! I feel like a scum!"

MISS ROSA dried her eyes and straightened. "When she came in, she blamed us—she said, it was my fault, it was your fault, it was Amy's fault, it was everybody's fault but her own—I couldn't tell her so, she was too hurt, and nobody young ever reasons about feelings while they're feeling them. She cares about you, she really does, Howard."

"Miss Rosa—I—I can't think so, and I'm not saying that to escape my own responsibility."

"I'm not going where people will look after me and I'm not going to a resort. I'm going where I can get something to do and where people are nice—and things are going on."

Miss Rosa guarded her expression and her speech. "Do you mean you want to go to work, find a position somewhere? But what will you do?"

Jane fell back on the story of Ann Veronica and rapidly adapted it to her own needs. "I can study something. I can train myself for something. I've got my own income, I can do as I like."

Miss Rosa was caught in the cleft stick of her own pity and understanding of Jane, and her solid common sense. "You'll have your own income when you're 25, Jane, and that won't be for four years. The money your father left is in the trustee's hands and is paid to me as your guardian, and though—"

"If you try to stop me, I'll kill myself," said Jane, and her voice turned Miss Rosa cold. At that moment she knew that Jane was actually ready to kill herself.

"—and though," went on Miss Rosa instantly, "it isn't regular exactly, there'll be no trouble about funds. I only ask you to be definite."

"Definite about what?"

"Definite about what you want to do and where you want to go."

"I'd like to go to London."

Miss Rosa cast about for an objection which would be strong, but not personal from herself.

"But you'd have to wait for a passport, 10 days or so at least."

"Then—then I'll go to New York."

Miss Rosa gasped with relief. "Well, I can tell you," Jane threw the words at her like stones. "That I'm going to do everything and go every place. And I'm never coming back to this dumb town as long as I live. And I'll never forgive Amy Lowe for what she's done to me, never, never, never."

"I think," replied Miss Rosa, firmly holding back both reproof and sympathy, "we'd better get down your big trunk."

BRITAIN SENDS ANOTHER NOTE TO UNCLE SAM

Emphasizes Desire to Permanently Settle War Debts

London, June 27—(AP)—A new British note was cable to the British embassy in Washington today in which the British government emphasized its desire to negotiate a permanent war debts settlement with the United States.

Foreign office officials declined to reveal the exact nature of the note except to say, "it is quite short."

The British policy of the past in reference to the desire for a discussion of a full settlement of the debt question was understood to have been restated as part of the communication.

The note is in reply to one by Secretary of State Cordell Hull suggesting payment "in kind," but it comes with Great Britain already in the defaulter class. She entered that status June 15 when she refused to pay an installment.

British circles pointed out that the day following the Hull note President Roosevelt took the position that payments in kind could be suggestions at home that England give Bermuda or some other possession near America to the United States in payment have drawn positive government opposition.

The most restful and cool place in this vicinity on a hot day is the camp grounds. Lovely shade trees, good drinking water, tables and benches. The swimming pool is ideal and the tennis courts are in splendid condition. The pool is open from 1:30 till 4:30 and from 6:00 to 9:30 in the evening. A life guard is always on duty.

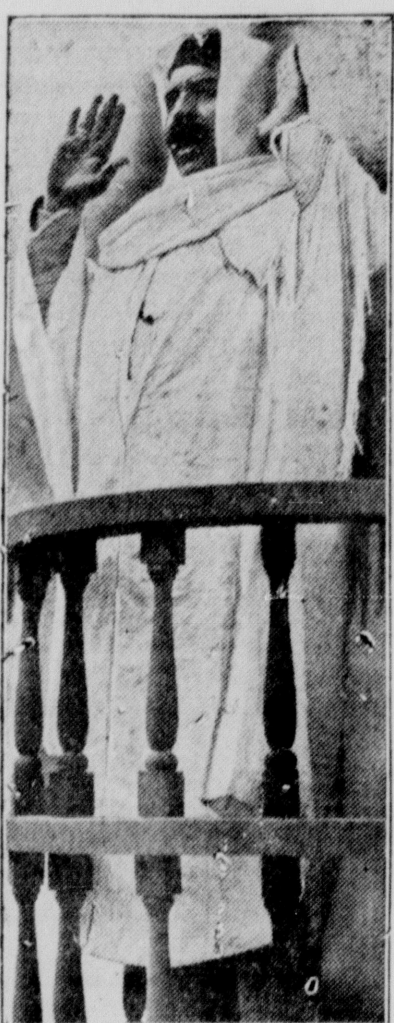

Remember the W. C. T. U. Rally on the camp grounds Saturday, a fine list of good speakers have been secured for the day.

Mayor George L. Spangler transacted business in Dixon Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold Caton of Evanston visited from Friday until Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Selma Fruit.

Sunday At The Camp Ground

A new plan of summer assemblies of inspiration, fellowship and outing has been planned for the Sundays in the month of July at the camp ground, every afternoon and evening.

Whether to take the family for an outing on summer Sunday afternoon, or whether to have the family stay at home; if to go, where to go—that something of the spirit of the Christian Sunday may be combined with some simple diversion in the out-of-doors. These programs have been arranged as the best possible solution of that problem. After attending the services at your home church and enjoying the noon meal at home, load the family into the car and drive to the Franklin Grove camp grounds. There you and your youngsters will find interesting programs for all ages. Bring your picnic supper and stay for the evening service. Excellent water and many tables are available. Ice cream and refreshments will be available on the grounds.

Sunday, July 1st at 3:00 P. M. a pageant, "The Light of the Trail" will be presented by the young people of the Rock River group of churches.

4:30—Recreation and supper period.

6:30—Epworth League meeting conducted by the Dixon Epworth League.

7:30—Evening worship. Sermon by Dr. Leon L. Hammett, Supt. of the Joliet-Dixon District. Music by the Assembly Choir, which will be composed of singers from all the churches in the Franklin Grove community. Rev. Forrest Holsington of Princeton will direct the choir.

It has been suggested that all Methodist churches within a fifty mile radius of Franklin Grove shall not hold evening services during the month of July, so that the ministers and laymen may participate fully in these afternoon and evening meetings.

Every Wednesday the services for the following Sunday will be published in this column.

Carthage Home-Coming
The history of the Carthage community is most interesting. Laid out as a village years ago, with a school, store, hotel, post office, blacksmith shop—even a doctor, it was later discovered that there was another Carthage in the state; so the post office was designated as "Taylor" though the old name is still used by everyone acquainted with the place.

From early days it was a progressive community, even though the dreamed-of city never materialized. A post office connected with the mail service at Oregon by an overland "stage" served the people until rural free delivery of mail was provided, route 1 from Oregon being the first route in this section of the country, and was established largely through the efforts of one of the residents of Taylor township, Hiram Edmonds.

The school house has always been the community center, serving as a meeting place in former years for the Sunday school, a Good Templars' organization, and neighborhood gatherings of various kinds, as well as a town hall on election days. Following the Civil War, the federal government provided that all returned soldiers might have free schooling for the length of time which they had given to the service of their country. Carthage school became the center for the soldier boys, coming from surrounding districts as well as the "home" district. It is stated that there were sometimes as many as eighty pupils, under two teachers during this period.

Right in line with the progressive spirit of the past, Carthage of today is a little in advance of her neighbors and has organized under the leadership of the teacher, Miss Eltha Thompson, a parent-teacher association which has planned, and successfully carried out a "home-coming" day. One June 20, all roads led to Carthage, and about two hundred former and present residents, teachers, pupils and friends gathered at the school grounds. Greetings were hearty as old friends met, as well as those of more recent years, and when noon came it was just one big community group gathered from far and near, who sat down to partake of the bounteous picnic dinner. Coffee was furnished by the P. T. A. and there was ice cream for all who wished it.

Following dinner, the chairs were re-arranged in rows, the organ carried out into the yard, and a most interesting and entertaining program was enjoyed. Mrs. Perry Myers, P. T. A. president, announcing the numbers. Duet numbers, songs of older days, were rendered by Walter Bennett and Oscar Larson, also community singing by the entire group, led by Mrs. George Lahman, Rev. Northrup, pastor of the Lighthouse church, of which the Carthage community is a part, offered prayer.

A planning committee, consisting of Roy Jonson, Mrs. Ada Thompson Hoy and Mrs. Irene Kness was appointed to confer concerning plans for future home-comings and to report later. Some of the teachers, pupils and others present were called upon to give reminiscences concerning their connection with and experiences in the Carthage community, particularly the school. Mrs. Winnie Heller Hills, a former teacher, came first. She said she could not speak of all her friends in Carthage, as they were so many, so would mention only her board of directors. Her references were highly appreciated and enjoyed. She was followed by Liberty Hanger, who lived at "Hanger's Corners," now "Schier's Corners." He stated as a pupil in the school in 1865 and was a teacher in the same school in 1885 and 1886. He told many interesting things about the days following the Civil War, when he was a small boy.

Mrs. Anna Champion Dexter, former county superintendent of schools in Ogle county and now a teacher in the Rockford schools, spoke of memories of Ogle county schools and very especially of Carthage. She complimented the community and the P. T. A. on its fine get-together spirit, and recommended that they continue on the same lines. Rev. W. S. Sanford, pastor of the Washington

Grove church, recalled many memories of boyhood days connected with the Carthage school, urging on all that they keep their one-room schools, out in the open country, working together with the neighborhood church to provide the best environment possible for the training of youthful minds and characters.

The chairman of the planning committee, Roy Johnson, reported that the committee wished the group to decide as to future homecoming occasions, and it was voted to make it an annual affair, leaving the details to the P. T. A. By request, he also presented the five prizes—"awards of merit" as follows: to the oldest former pupil present, G. W. Ling; the oldest teacher present, Mrs. Melissa Arnold Hunt; the one who came farthest to attend the picnic, Ianthus Westover; man and wife, both former pupils, Mr. and Mrs.

Harry Bennett; family with representatives of three generations present, all pupils of the Carthage school, Henry Ling.

After enjoying a vocal solo, "Rock Me to Sleep in an Old Rocking Chair," by Miss Georgia Lahman, the group divided, the younger people attending the track meet in the Bennett pasture near by, which was in charge of Roy and Everett Johnson, while the older folks moved their chairs closer together to listen to the reading of letters by Miss Eltha Thompson from Prof. Fernando Sanford of Palo Alto, California; Judge Fremont Sanford of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Merritt Taylor—all former pupils, now far away from the old school and community. It is impossible to report these letters from memory, but they were intensely interesting and full of reminiscences of early days in the Carthage neighborhood, school-days in the old school.

The sun was beginning to sink toward the west when the group reluctantly separated; all feeling that this would ever be one of the "red-letter days" of emmory, and looking forward to next year's "home-coming."

Treasury Building at Washington

The original columns on the east facade of the treasury building at Washington were of sandstone, and were completed in 1842. In 1908 these columns were replaced by granite, like those on the other sides of the building. They are Ionic monolithic pillars 36 feet 8 1/4 inches in height, and the diameter at the base is 4 feet.

"G-3"

Overnight — Goodyear's "G-3" became the fastest-selling tire in the world!

HERE'S the tire everyone is talking about! It took Goodyear over 24 months to perfect it—but it took only 24 hours for it to become a nationwide sensation.

"G-3" is its name. Just the factory symbol for the tread that stood out in every test—kept its grip 43% longer than former All-Weathers—twice as long as other tires tested against it.

What a tire! Its tread is wider—flatter—has more rubber in it—more grip because there are 16% more non-skid blocks in the center of the tread. And beneath this huskier, handsomer, tougher tread is the only ply material able to stand the strain—Goodyear Supertwist!

Why should you get less safety for your money—when the "G-3" All-Weather costs no more!

Sure, we have a GUARANTEE

—a guarantee against road hazards—a lifetime guarantee against defects of material and workmanship. With the quality of Goodyear Tires where it is today—you can be sure of satisfaction. Come in and see us about it.
